Letter of Recommendation
Mr. Jonathan Attar

To whom it may concern:

I am happy to write a recommendation letter for Mr. Jonathan Attar who will be graduating from our program March 2020. I am currently the Head of the International Office of the Faculty of Engineering, which encompasses students from the undergraduate level, to graduate and post-graduate. The International office also houses the undergraduate degree program in Electrical and Electronic Engineering.

I've known Jonathan since 2014 when he came to the Tel Aviv University Campus Fair to apply to the B.Sc. in Electrical Engineering. Throughout the past six years, I have seen him grow and fight for his passion. There are many students that come here and innately come with the background to study Engineering. Jonathan was not one of those students, coming from a much simpler background and small family life in Belgium.

He does not have the highest GPA and is currently based at 67.07, which is considered around a 75/76 in a USA Engineering program. He is however, one of the most driven students, pushing himself, asking questions in class and focusing on the future. During his time on campus, he underwent multiple surgeries and illnesses, as well as loss of close family members, which pushed his studies back one year.

It didn't stop him and he used it as motivation to keep going, to complete this degree and head out into the world. He is an excellent team leader, has completed an intensive project within the Faculty under Omer Tzidki in Deep learning solutions, and is conscientious.

Passion and determination is not something that can be taught; it's something that students either have or do not have and Jon has this. While he may not have the highest GPA, I'm confident that you will not find a more hardworking, decisive personality and employee than him. He will try hard, he will push himself and he will show you results.

I'm very proud of all that he's overcome and I'm happy to recommend him to this position.

Warmest regards,

Mrs. Jennifer Gottlieb
International Office, Director
Faculty of Engineering
